OVERVIEW

An assistant that reads supplier emails and does the typing for you

Every week, supplier quotes, purchase orders and bills of materials arrive by email in every format imaginable. Today, someone on your team reads each one and types the details into a spreadsheet by hand. ProcureMind ends that.

- It reads. Open any supplier email or document. ProcureMind reads it like a person would: PDF, Word, Excel, CSV, scanned documents and photos, up to 50 pages at a time.
- It types. One click and every important detail is extracted: vendor, quote number, line items, prices, tax, totals and dates. You check the result before anything is saved.
- It files and follows up. Clean data lands in your Google Sheet or downloads as a branded Excel file. Quotes are compared side by side, and quiet quotes get a polite follow up on day 2, 5 and 10.

ProcureMind works inside the Gmail and Outlook your team already uses.

The result: hours back every week, and quotes that stop slipping through the cracks.

STEP 1 OF 5

A supplier quote arrives

It starts with an ordinary email. A supplier sends a quote as a PDF, a Word file, an Excel sheet, or plain email text. This is the moment that used to mean manual typing.

STEP 4 OF 5 · THE WINNING PART

Compare quotes side by side, without retyping

Comparing suppliers used to mean typing every quote into a spreadsheet first. Now the comparison builds itself, and the decision takes minutes instead of days.

The screenshot shows the ProcureMind.io interface. On the left is a sidebar with navigation links: Extractions, Quotes, Analytics, Compare, RFQ Generator, Settings, Billing, and Documents. The main area is titled 'Quote Comparison' and includes a sub-header: 'Side-by-side comparison of quotes grouped by project. Assign projects from the extraction detail modal.' Below this are two tabs: 'Electrical Components RFQ' (selected) and 'Structural Steel RFQ'. A 'Best Value Quote' section highlights 'Lighting Direct AU' as the 'Best Price' with a total price of AUD 6,600. Below this is a table for the 'Electrical Components RFQ' comparing two quotes: Brisbane Electrical Supply and Lighting Direct AU. The table lists three items: 6mm TPS Cable, 20A Single Pole MCB, and 1200mm LED Linear Light, with their respective prices, quantities, and lead times.

Item Description	Brisbane Electrical Supply #BES-Q-7741	Lighting Direct AU #LD-2026-09912
6mm TPS Cable (100m roll)	AUD 285 qty: 4 ea lead: 1 day	—
20A Single Pole MCB	AUD 32 qty: 20 ea lead: 1 day	—
1200mm LED Linear Light 40W	—	AUD 220 qty: 30 ea

Every quote lined up: prices, terms, lead times and totals, comparable at a glance.

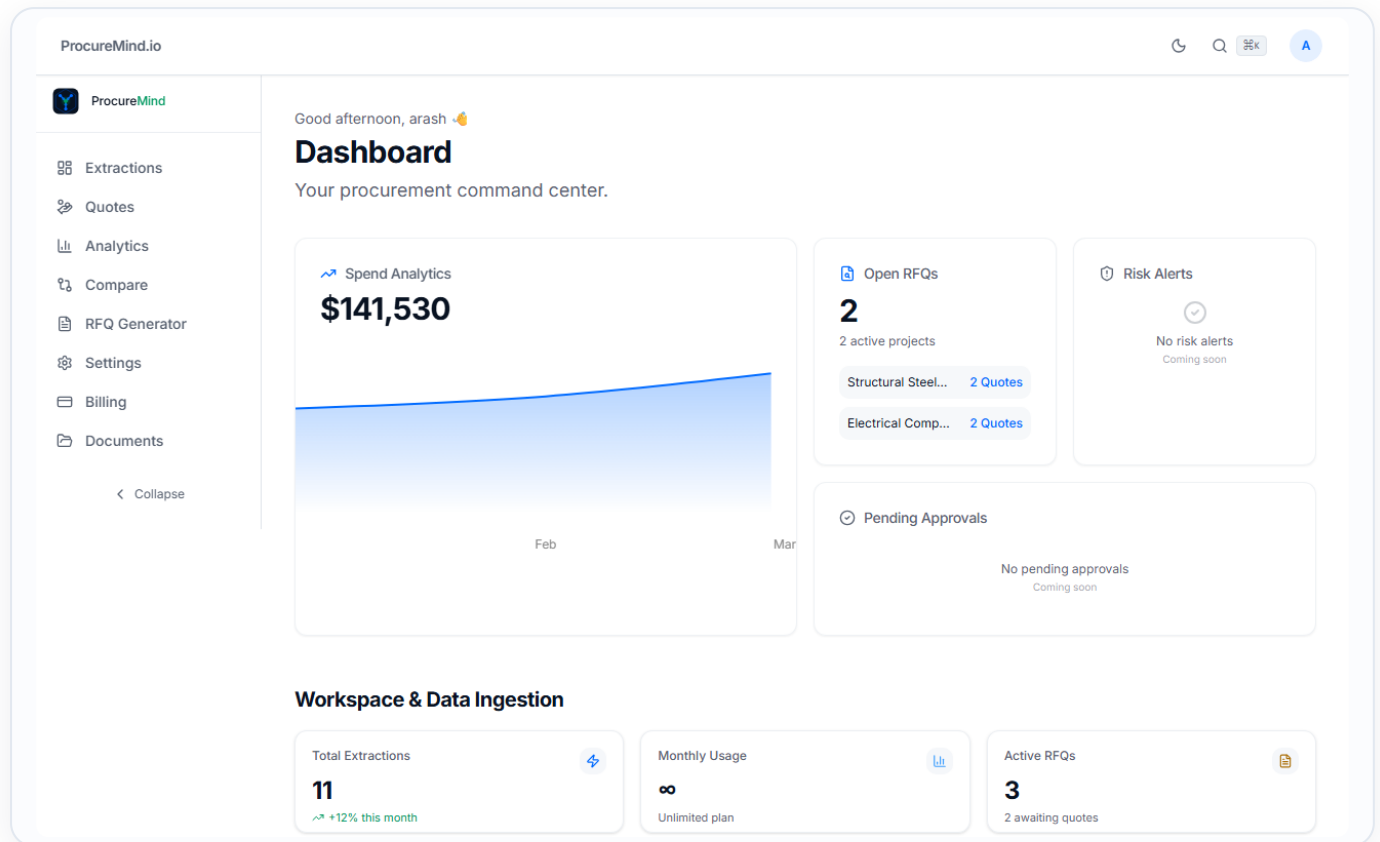

Why this wins you money

- The cheapest unit price is often not the cheapest quote. Terms, freight, validity and lead time sit next to the price, so you pick the real best deal.
- No retyping means no mistakes. A mistyped quantity or a missed line item costs more than the software ever will.
- Decisions in minutes. While a competitor is still typing quotes into a spreadsheet, you have already placed the order.

STEP 5 OF 5

Quotes that go quiet get followed up

Most lost jobs are not lost on price. They are lost to silence after the quote goes out. ProcureMind tracks every quote you send and prepares a polite follow up on day 2, 5 and 10. You review each one and hit send.

Every open quote, the revenue riding on it, and what follow ups have brought back.

Replies are read and sorted by intent: interested, asking, or gone cold. Every recovered dollar is counted on your dashboard, so you always know exactly what the follow ups are worth.
